

RIDDLEFILM.

RIDDLEFILM is a film production company established in 1995 to produce the 28-minute Super 8 short Delusions, the debut film of founder Benson Riddle. Though very small in budget, it still took the cash strapped fledgling company over 5 years to complete. It finally premiered to a packed Film Australia Theatre in March of 2001, with Filmlink Magazine saying of the film “its story is strong, making the technological limitations virtually unnoticeable”.

In early 2003 RIDDLEFILM produced the light-hearted 7-minute Indiana Jones parody The Quest. The adventure-comedy proved popular with audiences when it premiered at the Sour Grapes Film Festival at Fox Studios in Sydney later that year.

RIDDLEFILM then turned its attention to producing its most ambitious project so far, Noir Drive, an 18 minute film noir thriller shot on Super 16. Again self-funded, it was finally completed in April 2008, and is currently on the international film festival circuit, premeiering internationally at the LA Shorts Fest in August...